Re-Styled Movie Poster

This re-work of my movie poster draws its artistic influences from minimalism and contemporary interpretations of mid-century modernism. Ockham's razor was applied to the text and the main photo to simplify the layout and make the larger, duo-chromatic hero-figure "pop." Effects filters applied to the previous version were removed and the dominant color scheme was simplified to red and black, the red pulled from the lights in the posterized dominant graphic.
